

Denton Chosen for $42M Bloomberg better-data initiative

Denton Chosen for $42M Bloomberg better-data initiative

By | Mar 1, 2016

Thirteen cities from Anchorage, Alaska, to Waco, Texas, are getting a hand from former New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg to make better use of data.

Bloomberg Philanthropies announced Thursday its latest round of "What Works Cities" selections. The $42 million program ultimately will provide 100 U.S. cities with expert help to make data publicly accessible, incorporate it better into decision-making and evaluate programs.

The first eight choices were announced in August.

EMAIL

